

9. Bernard Kempinski's Signs

Here are some shots from layouts I built in the past where I used signs. I ran these photos through some new software that sharpens and reduces noise.

Jakes Gas (above) and Jarman's Gap Fruit Growers Association (below) were on my

C&O Mountain Sub Division Modules that I was converting to a home layout when I switched to O Scale ACW. The Esso station was an actual building, but I named the station after my friend's son who was known for his gas.

The Port of Los Angles shot (above) was from my former HO layout.

The CSX picture (left) goes way back to 1991. It was taken on the first module I ever built. I called it Chase Marine Terminal after my son, Chase. The bill board was a photo print of an actual billboard at Riverside Yard at Locust Point, MD. This module predated my use of Photoshop.
