

12. Lee Stoermer's Octagon Tower

This is a Northern Central (Pennsylvania) railroad octagon switch and signal tower. I had previously constructed a scratchbuilt version (below photo, left model) and this was an opportunity to add another of these needed structures. It started out as City Classics house kit. I was able to use the wall materials, rearrange and cut them, remake the windows, and come up with a close facsimile. Not as accurate as the scratchbuild, but close enough for me as another scenic element.
