

7. Greg Cassidy's Check Printers Building

Here are a couple of pics of a kitbash I did back when building my layout. Being in printing, I designed it to be the American Check Printers Company. They were doing very well back in the 60s, the time frame for my layout, but with the advent of credit cards, ATMs, and now online payment apps they are having a rough time. The main building was made by using Design Preservation Models wall sections that I had drawn up a design for, and that was mated with a modified version of Railway Design Associates Farm Fresh Warehouse. Greg Cassidy
