

2. ALEX BELIDA'S LINCOLN LUMBER COMPANY

Not a decal. Not a dry transfer. Not something printed. This is a sign I made from a bandage which had Abraham Lincoln's image on the outside. Why on earth would I make such a sign for my model railroad?

It goes back many years to my purchase of a used brass Shay engine. That engine was already lettered for the Lincoln Lumber Company.

By placing this sign by my sawmill, I had a destination for that Shay to haul logs to.
